Professional Experience

Partner and Attorney, Costigan & Wollrab, P.C. August 1987 to Present.

As a litigating partner, I have concentrated my practice in the areas of business litigation and employment litigation. I have represented business clients in actions involving allegations of interference with business relationships, trade secret violations, intellectual property protections, retaliatory discharge claims and other related corporate governance issues. In addition, I have counseled and provided risk-management assistance to various business clients on personnel issues, including establishing personnel policies, developing progressive employment policies and assisting employers in such things as recruiting, hiring and training.

In addition to handling corporate and employment related matters before the Illinois state and federal courts, I have also defended business clients before the Illinois Human Rights Commission, the Illinois Workers' Compensation Commission and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission.
